

Out of the blue

Colour and curves prove a winning combination in this pint-sized powder room.

STORY Sue Ramsey | STYLING Maryann Schmidt PHOTOGRAPHY Tom Ferguson

Blue was an apt choice of hue for the guest powder room of this family home, located on Sydney's Lower North Shore. "The owner loves blue and wanted to draw inspiration from her seaside location," says interior designer Maryann Schmidt of Hunt & Design. The entry to the space has a dramatic curve so Maryann referenced this by installing a curved wall-mounted basin. Her advice for designing petite powder rooms? "Make sure they pack a punch in terms of style, and think about the placement of all elements to ensure the space flows for optimal functionality." Hunt & Design; huntanddesign.com.au.

POWDER ROOM design notes

TILES Lingotti wall tiles in Azzurro, $98/m<sup>2</sup>, Di Lorenzo Tiles. Grange floor tiles in Silver Matt, $94/m<sup>2</sup>, Surface Gallery.

MIRROR Custom made by Precision Glass.

TAPWARE Circa wall-mounted basin mixer, $650, Sussex Taps.

BASIN Gallaria 'Alta' pedestal basin, $1707, Cass Brothers.

LIGHTING Flos 'Mini Glo-ball' lights, $319 each, Euroluce.

TOWEL RAIL Milli 'Mood' towel rail, $132, Reece.

For Where to Buy, see page 190.

